Is the online item really in stock? How to spot a dropshipper

Have you ever come across an online store selling a wide range of products, only to find out later that the business doesn't actually keep any of those items in stock itself? This setup is known as dropshipping.

The business acts as a kind of middle person, taking your order and then passing it on to another supplier who delivers the product directly to you.

Dropshipping often keeps costs down for the retailer as it removes the need for things like warehouse storage, which can then mean lower prices for shoppers.

But keep in mind it also comes with some risks. Because the business you're dealing with doesn't have the stock on hand, it has less control over important things like availability, quality control, delivery times, and where the items are actually coming from.

While dropshipping is a legal way to get items to consumers, retailers must be careful not to breach the Australian Consumer Law (ACL). A business shouldn't take your money if they don't plan on giving you what you paid for. The same goes if they're planning to swap it out for something different, or if they know, or really should know, that they can't get it to you by a promised date or within a reasonable period of time.

The items they supply, even through dropshipping, must also meet the consumer guarantees of being of acceptable quality, fit for purpose and safe.

If you have an issue with your item and the retailer you bought it from uses dropshipping, you may find it takes longer to get a remedy or it may become difficult as the business has no control over the stock they are selling.

So, if dropshipping means cheaper items, what's the issue then?

The cheapest option isn't always the best choice, especially if you need the product quickly or want peace of mind about where it's coming from.

If the website has long shipping times, uses photos other retailers are also using (check this by doing a reverse image search), is selling a large number of items for a seemingly "small business" or advertises heavily on social media, then these can be tell-tale signs you're dealing with a store that uses dropshipping.

Taking the time to check these details up front can help you avoid disappointment later, and make sure your money is going to a business that matches your needs.

Regardless of how a store chooses to ship items to you, they still must meet their obligations under the ACL. This includes resolving any delivery issues.

If you have an issue with an item you've bought online, try and resolve it with the business first.

If that gets you nowhere consider seeking a charge back on your credit card via your bank or payment provider. This highlights the importance of only paying through secure methods, our advice is to never pay via bank or wire transfer as you cannot get your money back.

September Issue 2025

This month I've been travelling our region, meeting people, catching up with other agency reps and more. Once again, I'm personally encouraged and left with a warm fuzzy feeling how the message of connection, community and looking out for each other is happening in conversations and at events. Whether a community event, sporting event or a BBQ communication and connection are a must to support ourselves and others enhancing our mental health and wellbeing.

An effective question to ask yourself, that assists with any situation we find ourselves in at any time is, 'What do I personally have control over and what do I not have control over? I can't control the weather but what I can do is be prepared for when the desired weather arrives or doesn't arrive.

'When we are no longer able to change a situation, we are challenged to change ourselves. (Victor Frankl).

If we are faced with a relationship break down or loss we cannot control what the other person says or does. We can't control what others say about our situation. But we can ensure we maintain our personal morals and core values. If others come up with gossip or negativity about the other person, we are free to choose to not agree or respond. Where someone is treating us with disrespect, we are free to choose to not agree or respond. We keep to our true selves, and we ensure we respond respectfully. There is no need for justification of why we choose to not engage in negative conversation. Very hard choice, but very effective and results in no regrets in the future.

Core values? not sure what yours are? One way is using the 'Wise words to ourselves' exercise. This exercise helps highlight our individuality and our unique life journey so far. Imagine now at your age you are sitting with the younger you and giving some wise words to that younger you. Write this message down. Separate messages for each age. Wise words of wisdom about what you know now that would have helped you of then. Advise your 5year old self, then 15, then 25, then 35, then 45, then 55 and so on. (Yes I'm over 55) This exercise should pick up what you have always felt is important and also some unique to yourself traits and life values.

The above may bring up some past oops moments as well. Even when feeling regret there was a lesson. Those times when we were not our finest also taught us and shaped us. We can't undo our past but we can choose to learn, move forward and do our best never to do that again.

I truly believe that every single person has good inside of themselves. Our thoughts and subsequent emotions maybe sometimes telling us otherwise. We are free to choose to be responsible not to just ourselves but to those we love as well. When everything is too much, ask for help, being true to yourself results in being true to those you love and hold dear as well.

STRENGTHENING NETWORK RESILIENCE FROM THE SKIES

Western Power has commenced work to treat more than 19,000 power poles via helicopter across the Mid West and Wheatbelt regions to enhance network resilience and reduce the risk of pole-top fires.

The work involves applying a silicone treatment to Western Power infrastructure within the shires of Carnamah, Chapman Valley, Coorow, Dalwallinu, Dandaragan, Gingin, Goomalling, Greater Geraldton, Irwin, Mingenew, Moora, Morawa, Northampton, Perenjori, Three Springs, Victoria Plains, and Wongan-Ballidu.

Executive Manager of Asset Management Gair Landsborough said dust and airborne pollutants can accumulate on insulators - particularly during harvest season. When combined with light rain or humid conditions, this can cause 'tracking' - where electricity flows across the surface of the insulator potentially causing pole-top fires.

"To mitigate this risk and enhance safety and reliability we apply a silicone treatment to the insulators preventing 'tracking' and the use of helicopters allows us to carry out the work across a vast section of our network efficiently and safely," he said.

"This work forms part of Western Power's broader network resilience program, which aims to improve power reliability across the South-West Interconnected System."

The current phase of work is already underway and is scheduled for completion by mid-2026. Once complete, more than 60,000 poles will have been treated since September 2023, strengthening the network and enhancing power reliability for homes and businesses.

This program complements a package of work that commenced in January to treat an additional 15,900 poles throughout the Wheatbelt region.

To learn more, including where and when work is taking place, visit westernpower.com.au/resources/education/network-improvements/helicopter-line-maintenance.

FROM FARM TO FINISH LINE: LYNDON HUNT CONQUERS IRONMAN WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP

Local farmer and amateur triathlete, Lyndon Hunt has just returned from competing at the Ironman World Championship in Nice, France. Lyndon qualified for this event in December last year after completing Ironman Western Australia in Busselton, securing one of the limited slots awarded to top age-group athletes worldwide.

Lyndon completed his training making use of the great swimming pool facilities we have in town. Many locals have seen Lyndon riding his bike up and down the Nebru hill for hours on end over winter, which as it turns out wasn't the best preparation for the French alps but there aren't many options for big hills in the Three Springs Shire.

Run training was incorporated into farm work with two feet being the mode of transport instead of getting lifts out to machinery.

The World Championship race in Nice is considered one of the toughest in the world, with athletes starting their day just after sunrise with a 3.8 km swim in the Mediterranean Sea, a gruelling 180 km bike ride through the picturesque and very hilly French Alps, followed by a full 42.2 km marathon run, all within a 17-hour time limit. Lyndon finished the race with 20 minutes to spare in 16 hour and 39 minutes!

Three Springs Primary School Updates

Interschool Athletics Carnival

What an amazing day at the Interschool Athletics Carnival hosted by Perenjori Primary School. We may not have come away with the overall win, but we couldn't be prouder of our students. Their outstanding sportsmanship, positive attitudes, and the way they encouraged one another throughout the day were truly inspiring.

Congratulations to all our students who placed in their individual events! We'd also like to give a special shout-out to the following students.

*Junior Girl Runner Up – Kiana M
Intermediate Boy Runner Up – Bobby D
Intermediate Boy Champion – Angus M
Senior Girl Runner Up – Payton M
Senior Girl Champion – Nya W*

You all represented our school with pride- well done team!

What a fantastic way to end the term! End Of Term Reward Day “Pyjama Day & Movie Afternoon”

Today marks our last day of Term 3 and what better way to treat the students than a Pyjama and movie afternoon. Dressed in their favourite Pyjamas students enjoyed a day full of excitement and relaxation. The day began with classroom pack-ups and a slightly earlier lunch at 12:40pm. All joining on the oval to eat together. After lunch, students were treated to an Ice Cream followed by a 30-minute ree play. Once the siren sounded, everyone made their way to the library where beanbags and blankets awaited them. The afternoon was topped off with a screening of the animated adventure film “Bolt”, giving students a chance to unwind and enjoy a well-deserved break.

We hope everyone has a relaxing and enjoyable break! See you in Term 4
